GERMAN SOLDIERS LUNGING FORWARD TOWARD VORONEZH

Heavy Fighting Begins Along Eastern Bank of The Don River

UNDER BRAUCHITSCH

Russian Newspaper Admits Situation at Rossosh is "Most Tense"

MOSCOW, July 10—(INS)—With Adolf Hitler reported displaced by Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch as commander-in-chief, the German armies lunged toward Voronezh with thousands of tanks and armored cars today as heavy fighting began along the eastern bank of the Don River.

Admitting that the Nazis had succeeded in crossing the river in sufficient numbers to necessitate full-scale defensive action, the Soviet army newspaper Red Star announced that the enemy had launched a major onslaught against Voronezh itself.

Russian officials had no confirmation of reports reaching London that the German High Command had insisted Hitler restore full powers of generalship to Von Brauchitsch. But the strength of the German drive clearly indicated a revitalized leadership.

Red Star frankly admitted that the situation at Rossosh is "most tense."

The Germans enjoy considerable numerical superiority and are being aided by constant streams of fresh reinforcements. Soviet troops have been compelled to withdraw from several additional settlements in the region.

Boy Swimmer, 12, Is Drowned at Burlington

BURLINGTON, July 10—Clarence Harrell, 12 years old, colored, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harrell, of 128 Federal street, was drowned in Assinunk Creek yesterday while swimming. The body was recovered about 4 p. m. by Blanchard Powell, of Earl street, and Wesley Dunbar, of Beverly. Coroner Emeral White, of Bordentown, viewed the body and had it removed to a morgue.

Young Harrell was swimming with George Crowley, 12 years old, of 316 Clarkson street, who told police that the former started to swim out in the creek when he apparently became exhausted. Crowley grabbed hold of Harrell, but failed to bring him ashore and the victim sank.

Rescuers set out in several rowboats but failed to locate him until late this afternoon.

Besides his parents, young Harrell is survived by two sisters, Evelyn, 17, and May, 15, and a brother, Henry, 10.

To Issue Stickers To Business Places

HARRISBURG, July 10—(INS)—The State Council of Defense announced today that window stickers for business and industrial establishments completing air raid precautions have been sent to local defense councils.

The stickers will be issued only after inspections reveal that the establishments have complied with eight requirements, including the appointment of a defense co-ordinator, organization of employees for civilian defense services, installation of necessary protective equipment, such as hose, shovels, pails, sand, and flashlights; compliance with blackout regulations; protection of personnel from blasts and concussion; liaison with local defense authorities; and compliance with instructions issued by the Office of Civilian Defense.

LETTER INDICATES CAMPAIGN TO RAISE $32,000,000 IN NATION FOR USO IS MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Receipt of a letter recently from Prescott S. Bush, national campaign chairman of the USO War Fund Campaign, by Hugh B. Eastburn, chairman in Lower Bucks County, of the drive for funds for this organization, shows that the drive throughout the nation is meeting with much success.

The letter reads:

July 6, 1942.

Dear Mr. Eastburn:

As of July 4th, there are five encouraging trends in our campaign which seem to me to be worth sharing with you and your committee:

The national total of $13,322,742 announced today (from reports dated June 27) reflects a strong and steady growth, which for the last three weeks has averaged $1,428,405 a week. This indicates hard work everywhere.

It also proves that the USO appeal is strong; that everybody, everywhere, is ready to give when asked to do so.

The 580 completed campaigns show an average over-subscription of 11 per cent.

Within the past week we've heard from 161 new local committees, which are just starting.

Finally, our latest figures show no reports from some 1900 local committees known to be currently active. No doubt they have raised considerable money not shown in our figures.

We're asking a lot from the men in service, but this is one fight I think we can win for them!

With all my thanks, and best wishes, I am,

Sincerely yours,
PRESCOTT S. BUSH,
National Campaign Chairman.

U. S. TROOPS STAGE A MOCK BERMUDA BATTLE

British and American Forces Repel An "Enemy" Invasion

PROTECTORS READY

(Editor's Note—This is the last of a series dealing with construction of a major U. S. Army base and activities of American troops garrisoned in Bermuda.—INS.)

By John R. Henry
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH U. S. TROOPS, Field Headquarters, Bermuda, July 10—(Delayed)—(INS)—Trudging across hot, dusty terrain and riding helter-skelter over hills and dales with nothing more than a lean moon to illuminate the roads, I saw American and British army forces repel an "enemy" invasion of Bermuda today.

It was mock battle.

There was no actual firing. Except for the few fellows who scratched their skin, there was no blood spilled.

The practice engagement, however, was sufficiently realistic to be convincing evidence that any foe who ventures toward this bastion of democracy will face almost certain death and destruction.

First warning of the impending "battle" came when sirens throughout the island screeched the signal that an air "raid" was imminent.

Scout planes had "seen" an enemy aircraft carrier 100 miles at sea, steaming toward the sandy, coral-trimmed island. The imaginary invasion force was accompanied by other units, including two troop transports.

Helmeted men hurried into action. Some took their posts alongside powerful weapons. Others set themselves at strategic positions and in fox holes. The air force stood by their planes.

Then came the first punch—a wave of "enemy" planes across the sprawling air field.

Most of the planes had been moved to other positions but the "enemy" landed a heavy blow. Casualties were heavy, according to directors of the war game, and the air field was littered with debris.

This correspondent was attached with a company under command of Capt. Donald M. Schewl, a strapping

Say Dead Motorman Failed To Obey Orders

NORRISTOWN, July 10—(INS)—Investigating authorities revealed today that a motorman failed to obey orders to pull into a siding shortly before a collision of two Lehigh Valley transit trolleys which killed 10 persons and injured 22 others on Wednesday night.

The motorman, Henry H. Strunk, 42, of Allentown, was killed in the head-on collision between the interurban vehicles near Norristown. Nineteen persons were reported still in hospitals with various injuries.

Police and State and company representatives declared a blood-stained dispatch order found in Strunk's pocket directed him to proceed to a siding along the one-way track and to wait until a south-bound passenger car and a freight passed.

The motorman allowed the other passenger car to pass, but did not wait for the freight, the investigators said. A few minutes later, the freight trolley collided with Strunk's vehicle at a curve, pinning victims in the wreckage of their seats.

ASK GAS DEALERS TO SELL TO DEFENSE EMPLOYEES ONLY

Attempt Being Made To Set Up Four Stations Here

ONLY ONE ACCEPTS

Others Are Withholding Their Decisions Until Later

An effort to establish four gasoline stations here to sell to defense workers only, is throwing the gasoline dealers into another series of headaches. The plan, apparently, originated with Fleetwings, Inc., but the public relations spokesman for Fleetwings today said that he had no available information on the subject.

One gas dealer here has posted a large sign painted in white on a red background, reading: "Gas for War Workers Only."

Other dealers are withholding their decision awaiting developments.

According to reports circulated here, the employees of Fleetwings have been handicapped in getting to their employment, due to their inability to get gasoline, and that the establishment of four stations to cater to defense workers only is being attempted so that the war effort will not be delayed.

A representative of the United States Air Corps, state the dealers, visited the gas dealers here on Wednesday and asked them if they were willing to handle business only from defense workers, and that if they so agreed their tanks would be kept filled until at least July 22nd, when the new gasoline rationing becomes effective.

Gasoline dealers, after July 22nd, it is stated, will be required to account for every gallon of gasoline sold, by turning in stamps which are now being issued.

The gasoline dealers now working on an allotment basis are out of gas much of the time and consequently lose business, while some ask that if they sign up to sell to defense workers only, "what will regular trade do and what will become of our business after the emergency is over?"

A survey made today revealed only one station which had agreed to sell to defense workers only. This station is conducted by Archie McLees, on Farragut avenue, near Green Lane. It is in front of this station that the large sign, "Gas for War Workers Only," is being displayed.

A number of dealers here who told The Courier they had been approached said they had definitely refused, while one stated that he is undecided. One dealer, in referring to the matter, and who refused to sign up, stated: "I feel that my customers have helped keep me in business, and that I should stand by them."

Application for rationing stamps continues today and tomorrow by users of gasoline here. The registration is taking place in the Jefferson avenue public school building and the Wood street school building, from three to nine p. m.

Pennsylvania motorists were requested today by the Revenue Department to affix gasoline rationing stickers to the lower right-hand corner of windshields. If the space already is occupied, then the sticker should be placed on the lower right corner of the rear window.

A Russell Burton, chairman of the Local War Price and Rationing Board, stated today that the board has not received application blanks or rationing books for gasoline for non-highway consumers, trucks, buses, or taxi operators.

The board therefore requests this type of consumer to wait until next week to make application. An announcement will be made in The Courier as soon as the blanks arrive.

An effort to establish four gasoline stations here to sell to defense workers only, is throwing the gasoline dealers into another series of headaches. The plan, apparently, originated with Fleetwings, Inc., but the public relations spokesman for Fleetwings today said that he had no available information on the subject.

One gas dealer here has posted a large sign painted in white on a red background, reading: "Gas for War Workers Only."

Other dealers are withholding their decision awaiting developments.

According to reports circulated here, the employees of Fleetwings have been handicapped in getting to their employment, due to their inability to get gasoline, and that the establishment of four stations to cater to defense workers only is being attempted so that the war effort will not be delayed.

A representative of the United States Air Corps, state the dealers, visited the gas dealers here on Wednesday and asked them if they were willing to handle business only from defense workers, and that if they so agreed their tanks would be kept filled until at least July 22nd, when the new gasoline rationing becomes effective.

Gasoline dealers, after July 22nd, it is stated, will be required to account for every gallon of gasoline sold, by turning in stamps which are now being issued.

The gasoline dealers now working on an allotment basis are out of gas much of the time and consequently lose business, while some ask that if they sign up to sell to defense workers only, "what will regular trade do and what will become of our business after the emergency is over?"

A survey made today revealed only one station which had agreed to sell to defense workers only. This station is conducted by Archie McLees, on Farragut avenue, near Green Lane. It is in front of this station that the large sign, "Gas for War Workers Only," is being displayed.

A number of dealers here who told The Courier they had been approached said they had definitely refused, while one stated that he is undecided. One dealer, in referring to the matter, and who refused to sign up, stated: "I feel that my customers have helped keep me in business, and that I should stand by them."

Application for rationing stamps continues today and tomorrow by users of gasoline here. The registration is taking place in the Jefferson avenue public school building and the Wood street school building, from three to nine p. m.

Pennsylvania motorists were requested today by the Revenue Department to affix gasoline rationing stickers to the lower right-hand corner of windshields. If the space already is occupied, then the sticker should be placed on the lower right corner of the rear window.

A Russell Burton, chairman of the Local War Price and Rationing Board, stated today that the board has not received application blanks or rationing books for gasoline for non-highway consumers, trucks, buses, or taxi operators.

The board therefore requests this type of consumer to wait until next week to make application. An announcement will be made in The Courier as soon as the blanks arrive.

PRICE FIXING

When Congress attempted to authorize the fixing of prices in the interest of preventing inflation and drastic increases in the cost of living, it refused to empower the price administrator to use a free hand in fixing the price of farm commodities and it refused also to allow him to control wages.

It was obvious then, and was generally agreed, that prices cannot be fixed unless all the factors that determine prices are under control. Congress knew this when it passed the bill. It knew that it was making a serious mistake, but it could not summon the courage to do the right thing. It was pulled out of the line of reason and common sense by the farm lobby and the labor lobby. Both lobbies worked directly against the national interest, and Congress was too weak to defy them. Its members were afraid that they would lose the farm and labor vote in the fall election.

Now the inevitable consequence of this foolishness and timidity is being reaped. The Office of Price Administration has announced that it has no choice but to allow some substantial price increases to make up for higher costs of farm products and higher labor costs. It has the prices under control all right, but it has no control of the factors that make the prices.

Thus as far as some essential commodities are concerned, the OPA has become merely an agency for fixing price increases and enforcing its regulations. Its effectiveness as a defender of the consumer against gouging and as a brake on inflation has been greatly reduced by what Congress failed to do.

Congress hopes that the people will blame the OPA. This is not entirely fair, of course. But it all adds up to the fact that when a nation starts to replace a free economy with a planned economy, nothing short of complete totalitarianism works.

PARATROOP RATION

Hiking 100 miles across hot Mexican sands was a recent assignment of Army Air Corps research experts. One day the temperature reached 127 degrees, with 90 degrees in the shade. But it was a research expedition. The men were testing a parachute troop ration. They wished to see how well they could get along on the 3,500 calories a day which the ration provides.

Henceforth, in flight, airmen will carry, along with their jungle kits, moisture-proof packages, each of which contains food for a day, as follows:

For breakfast, four ounces of penumic biscuit, two ounces of modified malted milk, a three-ounce can of veal loaf, two soluble coffee tablets, two cubes of sugar and one slice of gum. For the noonday meal, eight pieces of penumic biscuit, a tube of bouillon extract, a package of fifteen dextrose tablets, a tin of hamspread and a piece of chewing gum. For supper, chocolate, sucrose dry milk, lemon powder, three cubes of sugar, a tin of sausages, and some more chewing gum.

Such a diet probably would not appeal to the average American who thinks of food in terms of juicy steaks, tempting salads and rich desserts. But it is being tested as this country's reply to the enemy's demonstration that soldiers can get along for several days on concentrated food.

The Great Game of Politics

seeps through to the popular mind, the better.

THERE IS no justification for being light and buoyant about this business. There is every reason for the people to be in a grim mood. Also a little more grimness and a little less levity among our rulers in Washington would be helpful. Cheerfulness, of course, is a virtue, and no one wants to insist on being doleful. Nevertheless, there are too many people here enjoying this war and conditions are much too grave to make that tolerable. It naturally breeds resentment, and resentment of any considerable number of citizens against their Government at a time when the Government is imposing upon them unprecedented burdens is dangerous. It would seem that this thought might occur to some of our habitually blithe public officials. There is too much calling upon the people to put out of their minds all thought of politics and not enough example being set along that line by those who do the calling.

IN THIS dark hour for the United Nations—and it is a dark hour—there is one great comforting central fact which, if constantly kept in mind, will give us the courage to stand the further adversities and endure the greater hardships which undoubtedly are coming. Briefly, it is this: If England stands and if we can keep the Atlantic lanes open, nothing can prevent our ultimate and complete triumph. The reason is clear. Germany, strong as she still is, obviously can get no stronger. Extended to the utmost, after four years of war, she cannot now look forward to growing stronger. She has suffered immense losses in her Russian campaign and, despite her victories, the German army in men and equipment is not as strong as when the war started. It can get no stronger.

ON THE other hand, the British, caught unprepared in 1939 and losing most of her equipment at Dunkirk, are now stronger than ever and getting more so. As for the United States, with far greater resources and far more man power than Germany, we have just begun to develop militarily. With every day we gain in strength and in experience. In the end, our physical weight will insure the crushing of Hitler on the Continent of Europe. Until that time the Japanese will be secondary. The triumphant kill will be made over there. When is a question no man can answer, but the logic of the eventual victory is irrefutable. The German people, unlike the American people, cannot look forward to getting stronger day by day. At best they may maintain their present strength, but eventually they will be overtaken, passed and beaten.

THAT is the long view, but it is the sound view. Neither present nor future reverses should detract from it. This is the view Mr. Churchill expressed in Washington. This is the view above all others that our propagandists should constantly press upon our enemies. Just as it serves to buttress our confidence and courage, so it will sap theirs. Despite victories in Egypt and in Russia, before long they will sense the inevitable and inexorable end. It is conceivable that we might, through our own incompetence, defeat ourselves. Barring that, it is not conceivable that our enemies should do so.

U. S. Troops Stage A Mock Bermuda Battle

former football player from Murdock, Neb.

Sweating and grimy in the semi-tropical heat, the captain led me a merry chase to various prepared positions occupied by his men. Sometimes we walked, and sometimes ran and, finally, found the going slightly easier aboard the bounding broncho, auto that they call a "Jeep."

The invasion forces approached nearer, and as they did, the artillery secured the range and, in mock fashion, "fired" huge blasts at the onrushing ships. The umpires ruled that the enemy had sustained heavy losses, but continued to move in.

A withering barrage of rifle fire met the first foes to touch the white sand beach and machine guns cut thin their ranks, but still they came, and, eventually, were stopped before a position that ended the "battle."

Practice sessions, such as this, are regular occurrences in Bermuda. The troops are kept occupied further by drills, long marches and other tactical work which, officers said, keeps them in the pink.

All of their duty, however, is not "playing" at war, for a 24-hour vigil is kept against a real attack.

I stayed with the army long enough to see that Brig. Gen. Alden G. Strong's men are "on the alert."

It isn't all work and no play, though, because the soldier lads have some opportunity to enjoy swimming in Bermuda's cobalt blue waters, to attend movies, to dance and to write home. "I think we have a pretty happy lot of fellows here," commented Capt. Ralph A. Jones of Jamestown, N. Y., "but they mean business and are plenty ready to fight."

Barbecued Dinner Partaken Of By Red Cross Workers

TORRESDALE MANOR, July 10.—Mrs. Arthur Davis conducted a picnic for the surgical dressing group of the American Red Cross of Lower Bensalem yesterday.

A barbecued dinner was served on the lawn to the following: Mrs. Dewey Chapman, Mrs. Joseph Sharpe, Mrs. Ernest Scarborough, Mrs. Robert Fries, Mrs. Robert Barnhill, Mrs. Alfred Darrach and daughter, Mrs. Theodore Ernst, Mrs. William Heuges and children, Mrs. L. D. Halderman and daughter, Mrs. Eugene Weber and daughter, "Billy" Summerfield.

The guests enjoyed swimming. During the early evening Mrs. Robert Barnhill, production manager, in a speech said the Red Cross has asked for 26 million dressings by August 31st. The quota for the northeast chapter of Pennsylvania is 359,000. Need was stressed for greater assistance than ever before in making these dressings that are desperately needed by the armed forces and first aid stations throughout this and other lands. Mrs. Barnhill appealed to all women of Bensalem Township for extra effort to fulfill the said allotment.

Those interested please call Mrs. Arthur Davis, Cornwells 0220-J. The unit meets on Tuesday from 10 a. m. to four p. m.; and Wednesday evenings from 7.30 to 10 at All Saints' Church, Torresdale. Volunteers do not have to attend the entire session, but may give what time they can spare as each minute helps to complete another dressing it was announced.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

Our God and Father, we praise thee for the constant access we have to thee through Jesus Christ thy Son. We bless thee for thy gifts day by day, for spirit, soul and body. We thank thee that thou art ever the same in thy unchanging love and grace. We rejoice that we might draw from thy fullness each moment according to our needs. Grant unto us a deep and increasing consciousness of the preciousness of Christ as our divine redeemer, and a growing assurance of the constant supply of thy Holy Spirit for daily living. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

With what appears to be effortless grace, Eleanor Powell cracks all dancing records in a group of striking new routines in her latest picture, "Ship Ahoy," which came to the Grand Theatre yesterday.

She invariably brings a new dance novelty to every picture, but this time there are five. She has a lovely chorus of Hollywood loveliness to aid and abet her.

Dancing, however, is not all that makes this picture highly entertaining. There is Red Skelton's comedy, with that of Virginia O'Brien and Bert Lahr.

BRISTOL THEATRE

As timely as tomorrow's newspaper headlines and even twice as exciting is "Remember Pearl Harbor," which opens today at the Bristol Theatre in the first of a two-day run.

It is magnificently enacted by a splendid cast which includes Donald M. Barry, Allan Curtis, Fay McKenzie, Tierney as Belle herself.

Rhys Williams, Sig Ruman, and Maynard Holmes.

"The Royal Mounted Patrol," which is opening today at the Bristol Theatre, promises double action for local western fans.

RITZ THEATRE

John Shepperd, the young actor whose work in "Flight Command" won him a term contract, is seen in an important featured role in "Belle Starr," Technicolor film about history's most famous "petticoat bandit."

"Belle Starr," which is now at the Ritz Theatre, co-featured Randolph Scott as the daring guerilla leader who loved and married Belle, and Gene Barry, Allan Curtis, Fay McKenzie, Tierney as Belle herself.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

YOUR TREAT! If you stay in town to shop Wednesday evenings, why not take your man up to Snellenburg's unusual dining room (the 5th fl. one) and take your turn at buying him a good meal? There's a festive, sophisticated air about the place to please any man, and the food is really luscious. Besides, there are three very special dinners to be had at 85c each or two for $1.50. Listen—an appetizer, dessert, etc., plus either a grand tenderloin steak, whole fresh Maine lobster, or chicken à la Maryland! Go on, surprise him! (Just now, too, this dinner is being served at noon every day!)

DRESSMAKER BATH SUITS. To look right, "dressmaker" bathing suits have to be made with just the right lines. The buyer in Snellenburg's 2nd fl. Bathing Suit Dept. is abnormally clever in discovering flattering "dressmakers." Those she has selected for this season are unusually becoming. You will like the fullness of their short skirts. They come in both one and two piece styles, and are fashioned from colorful cottons in floral prints and stripes with light grounds. Misses' sizes 19 to 18. Only $3.98.

TWICE TOUGH. The mortality of tumblers and glasses in summer is enormous. So, the famous Corning glass works have supplied Snellenburg's 3rd fl. Glass Dept. with a new invention—four types of drinking glasses which are said to be twice as resistant to breakage as the ordinary "chip proof" glasses heretofore advertised. Yet these glasses are graceful and comparatively light weight. They'll outlive the summer, and then some. Prices? 5-oz. tumblers, $1.20; 9-oz. table tumblers, $1.35; 9-oz. highballs, $1.40; 12-oz. iced teas, $1.75 per doz.

NEW AND MARVELOUS. There's a clear idea you can apply to window glass just as you would blackout paint. But you can see right through this new "painted" shatterproof. Folks are buying it by the quart and the gallon and keeping it for raid emergencies. It can even be put on mirrors. Better buy it while the supply is plentiful. That's why I am telling you ahead of time. $3.50 a quart and $12.50 a gallon. Cheap because it may save lives. A gallon covers about 65 home-size panes. Snellenburg's 3rd fl. Housewares Dept.

RUSH FOR ONE! Imagine, in these days of priorities, being able to buy a ventilating fan for the kitchen. But there they are for your taking—if you'll hump yourselves and buy one before they all go with the wind. Girls—that was a pun. But the difference in a kitchen with a ventilating fan and one without one is indescribable. Moreover, I've known a sweeter attic to be made a sleepable place with one of these electric gadgets. The price, $7.95, is marvelous. The fans will fit windows from 24 to 34 in. wide. The rubber cords are extra long. Invest. Snellenburg's 3rd fl. Housewares Dept.

AIR RAID PAJAMAS! At least they're the kind you wouldn't mind being seen in by your air raid warden! Personally, I like to go to bed these nights garbed in something I can bounce out in in a hurry and not feel self-conscious. For this purpose or just for attractiveness, I have selected for you two Snellenburg models from the 2nd fl. Lingerie Dept. Both sizes come in 32 to 40. Each is made in a swank rayon print. The "butcher boy" model has white designs on a copper red or blue ground. A belted jacket-coat model comes in a palm tree print jacket with plain, almost black trousers. One could really use the latter model for lounging. Either could be used for breakfasting. Just right for train travel, too. $2.25 each.

A CHEAPER "MUST": The price of stirrup pumps had me worried. Lots of us just couldn't afford 'em, raids or no raids. Now comes a dandy at much, much less—$4.45, in fact. Leave it to Snellenburgs to search around for a pump to suit the lower budget patrons. You can't get it in any other Philadelphia shop, either. Not only is this "stirrup" good for raids, but it's fine for ordinary fire protection. Every one of my shopping friends—and that means you—should be sensible enough to have one. The thing shoots a stream of water twenty-five feet. Can take the place of a garden hose if you like. 3rd fl. Housewares Dept.

SOLDIERS CHERISH THEM. Among the most welcome things from home are snapshots, and when you send the one or two best in a real saddle-leather pocket folder, well, that's a tops gift. Snellenburg's Service Men's Canteen (1st fl., in the Stationery Dept.) force are forever thinking up things the men will like best, and this saddle-leather folder business has turned out to be a honey. The folders measure respectively about 5x3 and 4x3 in. A mere $1.

P.S. Shopping, writing or phoning, do mention you're a "Faith Clarke" reader. It helps all 'round. Faithfully, FAITH.

LADA, ON MOUND FOR HUNTER TEAM, WHITEWASHES DIAMOND IX, WINNING GAME BY THE SCORE OF 6 TO 0

"Eddie" Lada, brilliant right-hander for the Hunter team, whitewashed the Diamond nine last night on St. Ann's field as the muckin' makers remained in the fight for the second-half championship. Final score was 6-0.

For five innings, Lada blanked the Diamantians without a run or hit and with two gone in the sixth, Roe connected for the first Diamond hit. In the following inning, Bobby Bauroth got a single, Lada issued two walks, making but four Diamond players to reach base in the game but only two got as far as second base. Bounds on a steal and Roe on a balk.

The Hunter team took advantage of the "breaks" of the game to score its six runs in the first inning. This was done with only three hits. From the second inning on, the Huntermen were shut out without a run or hit.

"Lefty" Keegan was the starting moundman for Diamond and he helped dig his own grave with an error. Lawrence, the first batter, was given a pass. Del Rossi bunted to Keegan who tossed wild to second, both runners being safe. Cesario hit to Roe and Lawrence went out at third base. Palumbo hit to DeRisi who fumbled and then threw wild to first. Del Rossi scoring. Busch scored two with a double and Carter followed with a triple. Russo scored Carter with a single and when Goodwin erred, Russo made third base. Pagnotta fled to center, admitting Russo. Lada ended it by flying to left.

After Keegan got by the second and third, he was replaced by "Eddie" Sullivan who handed out goose-eggs without the benefit of a hit for the last four innings.

"Bill" Balon and "Rabbit" Palumbo were the fielding stars of the tilt.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at B and Toga streets in Philadelphia, the Bristol A. A. will play the Kensington A. A. of the Philadelphia League. Mulholland says that Heisler and Vanzant will be the battery for Bristol, while Grindie and Wolf will do the work for the Kensington team.

RADIO "UNIVERSITY"

SCOTT FIELD, Ill. — (INS) — Scott Field, the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command's radio "university," is named for Corporal Frank W. Scott, who met his death in an experimental flight at the first Army aviation school at College Park, Maryland, in 1912. Its laboratories, training radio operators for the Army Air Forces, are among the best-equipped in the world.

OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — (INS) — When the borough council of State College voted a 10 per cent increase in the salaries of borough employees, an increase in expenditures and even taxes might have been expected. It just didn't work that way.

Tax mileage was reduced and the budget ordinance provided for expenditures of $8,000 less than last year. Council achieved it by cutting highways and tax collection expense items.

SKEET GROUND LEAD MINE

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — (INS) — A skeet ground, in use for the past four winters here, has been prospecting for lead by Walter Hlick, the miner who discovered the metal resources of Los Angeles' city dump. He found that one pound of sand yields three ounces of shot—maintains that all skeet grounds are rich in lead.

LONDON — (INS) — A new simplified code of drill and training was introduced by the British War Office to speed up training of new army recruits.

The new plan consists chiefly of cutting out the formal parts of the drill, and teaching the handling of weapons and other duties in ways that come most naturally and easily to recruits.

Berlin (By official German wireless) — The German high command claimed today that Russian troops, supported by tanks, failed to "relieve pressure" against the northwest sector of the Voronezh battlefield.

Pursuit of retreating Soviet soldiers continues on a "broad front" in the southern sector, it was claimed.
